TIMELESS STYLE

"I can look at myself in the mirror and I can be proud," Tippi Hedren (here, circa 1963) once said.

Everything old is new again! Today's stars channel Tippi Hedren in comfy-chic style

Feels like just yesterday that we watched in suspense as a young Tippi Hedren fought off an avian attack in Alfred Hitchcock's 1963 thriller The Birds. In the years that followed, she made her mark as a Golden Globe-winning actress and an animal rights activist. But it was the former model's style that solidified her as a fashion icon — and the 86-year-old beauty is still captivating us with her red carpet ensembles today! "She has an innate way of combining casual with camera-ready," says Cameron Silver, fashion director of QVC's H by Halston line. "Even in a simple ivory sweater, she exudes effortless elegance."

So it warms our hearts to see today's stars (including Tippi's daughter, Melanie Griffith) strolling around LA in creamy cowl-necks just like Tippi did. Adds Silver, "The drape frames the face and functions as a knit necklace, so there's no need to overaccessorize — it's simple and stylish all on its own."

Melanie Griffith, 59

Tippi's daughter clearly inherited her mom's sense of style! Melanie's cowl-neck sits perfectly to mask any loose neck skin, plus the top's lightweight knit breezes over any belly lumps without adding bulk. Slim jeans and booties are a chic finishing touch.
