Top off any look with a boyish cap for instant #ItGirl style

Stars are achieving no-stress fabulous by following Queen Bey's #IWokeUpLikeThis lead and tossing on menswear-inspired toppers. "Caps can instantly pull a look together, and the latest high-fashion offerings put a feminized twist on the classically male style," says Cameron Silver, fashion director of Lord & Taylor's H Halston collection, who has styled stars like Rihanna and Lady Gaga. Having a bad hair day? "There's no need for dry shampoo when you have a stylish hat!" jokes Silver. We rounded up wallet-friendly finds to finish every look in your closet. LS

BEYONCÉ's Saint Laurent heels add a shot of sexy to her bubblegum-pink butterfly getup — but for a steep $795! Score a $28 steal at Lulus.com (search "Something Sweet Burgundy").

EXPERT TIP
"Taking off your hat may result in static-ridden hair," Silver notes. "Keep a dryer sheet in your purse and rub it on locks to fight flyaways."

Neutral Patterns

"A pattern adds edge, and keeping the colors neutral ensures that it works with a vibrant getup," says Silver. He advises pairing a patterned baseball-inspired cap (which works great with braids) with an insignia sweater and flowy midi skirt for sassy-chic street style.

Buttoned Brims

A buttoned cap lends a dose of tough-gal edge to an outfit, says Silver. And he notes that the vintage-style buttons help draw attention to pretty eyes. Sport with a neutral blouse and pleated leather miniskirt for a weekend look that's party-perfect.

Ornate Embellishments

"Leave your statement necklace at home and turn heads with jewels on your hat," suggests Silver. He asserts that the glitzy cap can work for a laid-back cocktail occasion. Throw on a bodycon dress and a moto jacket for a look that reads totally confident and maximally sexy.

The '80s strikes back with #OldSchoolCool caps. "The bold patches and angora textures of the '80s have gotten a modern athleisure update with a baseball-cap style," says Silver. Kick back with a bomber jacket, leggings and trainers for a look that can go from the gym to a night out.
