

Courtesy of Diana Misetic

Stylebook: 'King of Vintage' Cameron Silver comes to Pittsburgh

SARA BAUKNECHT ✓
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette
sbauknecht@post-gazette.com

12:00 AM MAY 15, 2017

A slice of the Los Angeles fashion scene is coming to Pittsburgh on Tuesday, courtesy of designer Diana Misetic.

At her shop Little Black Dress (809 Ivy St., Shadyside), she will hold a trunk show featuring vintage fashions from Decades, the famed vintage and modern clothing store on Melrose Avenue. Selections from Chanel, Gucci, Lavin, Valentino and others have been handpicked for the event by the store's founder, Cameron Silver. He will be on site for a private reception at 5-8 p.m. Tuesday and will help style guests and sign copies of his book, "Decades: A Century of Fashion." The vintage pieces will

ADVERTISEMENT

MODA OPERANDI

29% Off

Four Quick Questions

Did you vote yesterday?

- Yes
- No
- Does not apply

remain at the store Wednesday for a public shopping event from 5-8 p.m., along with pieces by Ms. Miseti.

Cameron Silver

The collaborative event has been in the works for a while, she says. The pair connected through a trunk show in Geneva and became fast friends.

“One of his wishes was really to come here,” Ms. Miseti says. “He’s excited to meet people in Pittsburgh. He loves to work with women and has such a great style.”

Beyond Decades, Mr. Silver is the fashion director for H by Halston and was part of the Bravo reality TV series “Dukes of Melrose.”

While this will be their first collaboration in Pittsburgh, Ms. Miseti anticipates it won’t be the last.

“This is just the beginning,” she says.

Information: www.dianamiseti.com.

More Pittsburgh fashion news and events ...

- The Go Red for Women luncheon and fashion event will feature heart disease survivors in a runway show at the Wyndham Grand Pittsburgh hotel, Downtown. The function from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Friday is sponsored by the American Heart Association. Tickets: $350 at pittsburghored.heart.org.
- A swimming pool will be transformed into a catwalk for the Graffiti & Glam fashion show at 7 p.m. Saturday at the “smart house” on Mount Washington. Michael Anthony Designs will debut a limited-edition line of handmade corsets dressed up with artwork by local artisans. The corsets will be auctioned off to benefit the Woodlands Foundation. Tickets: $60 for VIP access and $40 for general admission at www.3rmgroup.com.
- Shop vendors, sip signature cocktails and support the Emmaus Community of Pittsburgh at the second annual Fashion for a Cause high tea and fashion show by the RAMP Foundation. Celebrate the Preakness Stakes race in Baltimore by donning your favorite hat. It’s 2-5 p.m. Saturday at the St. Clair Country Club. Tickets: $50 at eventbrite.com.

Does not apply

Next

Post-Gazette Question

LATEST LIFE

Whether green or white, asparagus is a rite of spring

Dugout Deli hits a homer with memories of Maz, Bucs, baseball

Penn State alums sell Creamery ice cream in Elizabeth Township

Food Column: Sandwich feast, two-way street fest and bacon roast on tap

Johnson Estate Winery creates a wine for May

Pro Football

Vikings coach says if he has to coach with 1 eye, he will

Yonkers features Art Rooney Pace on Saturday night

Jets sign White, 3rd-rounder Stewart; Estime waived/injured

Giants coach denies telling Manning not to throw to Cruz

Saints exploring possibilities for newly acquired Peterson

... MORE

HOME

ADVERTISEMENT

IT'S HERE